Paul H. Jones— Star Loses a Lifetime Staffer

Back in 1929 when the late C. E. Palmer and I consolidated the local papers as Hope Star someone took a picture of eight newsboys at the curb in front of the Hope Daily Press location on S. Main St. where we had consolidated the two printing plants. One of those boys was Paul H. Jones. But he was outgrowing his carrier job, so we promoted him to mailer. He grew some more, and one day he confided he was going to be married and asked to fill an upcoming vacancy in the company's general bookkeeping post. He got it.

Time went by and he joined the management team as managing editor. In more recent years he became general manager, supervising all departments of the newspaper.

This is the story of a man who steadily advanced in the organization he gave his life to, who did every task he was assigned to—and did it superlatively well.

He was a great fisherman, a great reader and student of wildlife. His desk was filled with encyclopedias of North American game and fish, and if you asked him something on this he either had a prompt answer or knew where to find it.

Paul was close to the hearts of all his fellow workers.

How we'll miss him words can not tell.

Death at 56 is tragic—felt the most by those he helped during a long and successful career.

Showers Dampen Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms dampened most of the nation today, except for the areas that need rainfall the most: the Great Basin and the Southwest.

Wet weather splashed from Washington state to northern California, along the Rockies, from the Gulf to the middle Mississippi Valley and from the lower Great Lakes eastward into southern New England.

More than two inches of rain fell at Pensacola, Fla., in a six-hour period overnight while an inch or more hit Mobile, Ala., McComb, Miss., and New York City in the same period.

The parched and drought-ridden Great Basin and the Southwest missed the rain for the most part. Phoenix, Ariz., is now in its 19th week without measurable precipitation.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 27 at Alpena, Mich., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

York Killed in Shootout

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP) — Thomas Jefferson York, a Fentress County constable and the youngest son of World War I hero Sgt. Alvin York, has been killed along with his prisoner in what officers say was an apparent face-to-face shootout.

York, 38, was found dead next to his car early Sunday. Nearby was the body of Willy Gibson, 29, of Albany, Ky. York had been shot once in the face with a derringer, officers said, and Gibson was shot twice in the right arm and once in the chest with a .38 caliber pistol.

Fentress County Sheriff G. B. Hold Jr. said York had been investigating a traffic accident in which Gibson was involved. York apparently was taking Gibson to the sheriff's office when the shooting occurred. Holt said. The car was found, with engine running and lights on, on U.S. 127 North about four miles north of Jamestown.

Holt said York had been a constable — with the same powers as a deputy sheriff in the county — for about six years. He also was a park ranger at York State Park in nearby Pall Mall, Tenn.

Paul H. Jones, Star General Manager, Dies

Paul H. Jones, 56, general manager and managing editor of Hope Star, died of a heart attack at his home on Rosston Rd. Sunday night.

He was a circulation carrier boy when the local papers were consolidated as Hope Star in 1929, became mailer, then bookkeeper, moved up to management as managing editor, and finally became general manager.

He was a fisherman, a veteran of the Navy in World War II, and a Methodist. He had gone fishing on Saturday just a day before his death. Commission Approves Grant

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement approved Thursday grants to finance public defender programs in Pulaski and Perry counties and in the 14th Judicial District.

A grant of $81,932 will finance the Pulaski-Perry defender, who will represent indigents in criminal proceedings, and who will be selected by a Public Defender Commission subject to the approval of Circuit Court Judges Richard B. Adkisson and William J. Kirby.

Pulaski County will provide office space for the public defender and his staff.

The program will be evaluated after a year, said Ray Biggerstaff, director of the CCLE. He said the program probably will begin by June 1.

A grant of $28,436 will finance the 14th District program. The district includes Boone, Marion, Newton, Searcy, Van Buren and Cleburne counties.

The commission also approved federal LEAA funds totaling $210,573 for 26 other projects, among them one for the state Law Enforcement Academy and one for the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

The academy will receive $25,000 to conduct special training sessions at 12 cities, which will provide 400 police officers with 40 hours of training.

The grant of $36,000 to UALR was for continuing development of a degree program in criminal justice.

Tank Explodes on Ship

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — An explosion while a tank aboard the Apollo 16 spacecraft was being flushed of fuel has hospitalized 46 persons, most of them for observation of effects from inhaling fumes, the Navy said.

The blast at North Island Naval Air Station Sunday left a three-inch scratch in the command module's heat shield and damaged three airplanes parked in the hangar with the spacecraft, a Navy spokesman said.

Horatio Gov. Candidate Doesn't Need Wife; He Runs His Own Campaign

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

HORATIO, Ark. (AP) — When Rep. George W. Davis of Horatio makes up his mind, he evidently doesn't hesitate to act. When he decided to run for governor, he acted without consulting even his wife.

Davis, a Democrat, announced first for this year's gubernatorial race and his wife got the word from news media. A fifth-term legislator from Sevier County, the 54-year-old Davis said he had been contemplating the gubernatorial candidacy for three years.

He described Gov. Dale Bumpers as a weak, indecisive governor and said the people deserve better leadership.

Political observers see legislative redistricting as a factor in Davis' political thinking. The state Board of Apportionment, of which Bumpers is chairman, drew new districts this year, including one placing Davis and Rep. Charles O. Wade of Texarkana in the same district. Most of the votes in that district are in Texarkana.

He says the redistricting was "gerrymandered."

The outspoken son of a lumber company muleskinner, Davis has been a veterinarian, a vocational agricultural instructor and a sawmill hand.

He said he does not oppose school desegregation, but is opposed to school busing. He describes himself as liberal on social issues, but conservative on fiscal matters.

For example, Davis said, he opposes the sales tax, but supports a progressive income tax. He pledged to oppose an effort to increase the sales tax.

As a legislator, Davis voted for most of the key pieces in the legislative package offered by Bumpers in the 1971 legislature, including the governmental reorganization plan and the $28 million tax program.

Now, however, Davis says, "We are taxing the poor people in too many ways and the rich people have too many loopholes."

His vote for ... taxes, Davis said, was aimed at giving school teachers more money.

Projections of a $12 million surplus in state revenue this year prompted Davis to say that he would use some of the state money to provide free textbooks for all the state's high school pupils.

He said that would be in line with the state Constitution which says free public schools shall be provided.

He also has expressed publicly regret over his vote for the governmental reorganization plan, which Bumpers has called the No. 1 achievement of the administration.

"I voted for it, because I was not afraid to try something new," Davis said. "I wanted to give it a chance to prove itself and I didn't want to be against something just because it was new."

Now, it is new no longer, he said, and it has failed to prove its worth.

The plan grouped about 65 agencies into 13 major departments, but, Davis said, the result has been a fattened state payroll without visible evidence of increased efficiency.

"I'm sorry I voted for it," he said.

Clear Skies Projected for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clearing skies are the projection for Arkansas' weather at the start of this week.

The National Weather Service forecasts clear to partly cloudy skies tonight and Tuesday with no important temperature changes.

Lows tonight are predicted in the mid 40s to mid 50s with highs Tuesday forecast in the mid 70s to near 80.

The Apollo 16 craft carried John Young, Charles Duke and Ken Mattingly into moon orbit last month. It was recovered from the Pacific by the carrier USS Condeoga after splashing down April 27. The craft had been stored here since last Friday.

Security Council Is Called on Vietnam

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the United States renewed air strikes on targets near Hanoi, President Nixon met for three hours today with his highest-level advisers to chart new Vietnam strategy.

The National Security Council meeting, the first in nearly two months and the longest in many months, ended without disclosure of what was discussed.

White House spokesmen refused to discuss the agenda or say why the meeting was called on such an urgent basis. But it was clear possible new major directions in Vietnam military and diplomatic policy were in the making.

Asked whether President would go on nationwide television and radio to disclose any new Vietnam steps, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren replied, "There are no plans that I know of." But Warren would not flatly rule out the possibility.

After the meeting ended, Warren said it had been attended by the statutory NSC members—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Gen. George Lincoln of the Office of Emergency Preparedness—and by four other officials: presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Central Intelligence Agency Director Richard Helms and Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

Even as the session was under way, the U.S. command in Saigon announced that U.S. warplanes had returned to the Hanoi area for the first time in three weeks and had bombed storage depots, barracks and training facilities supporting the North Vietnamese invasion of the South.

The White House refused to say whether Nixon had personally ordered the renewed Hanoi-area raids, but American sources in Saigon said he had.

The President's Moscow summit visit was perhaps swaying in the balance as he conferred in the Cabinet Room with his top advisers. Warren said, however, that "plans are proceeding" for the visit due to begin in two weeks.

A few hours before the meeting began, reliable American sources in Saigon said Nixon had ordered U.S. warplanes to bomb fuel and supply depots and other military targets on the edges of Hanoi.

They were the first raids on the Hanoi area since April 16.

The urgency of the National Security Council meeting was underscored by Nixon's orders for Secretary of State William P. Rogers to interrupt his tour of European capitals to return to the United States for the session.

There was no official indication of whether the President had already made his decision, or whether he was still considering a set of options designed to stem the current North Vietnamese offensive and begin meaningful Vietnam peace talks.

The options reportedly range from a naval blockade of Haiphong Harbor to renewed bombing of military targets in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas to possible dispatch of Marines now on Navy ships in the China Sea to protect U.S. installations and troops in the beleaguered Hue region.

The National Security Council meets irregularly and only when major decisions are in the making. Its staff is headed by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and its members include the secretaries of State and Defense, the vice president, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Bombers End Lull, Strike Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes returned to the Hanoi area today for the first time in three weeks and bombed storage depots, barracks and training facilities supporting the North Vietnamese invasion of South Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced.

The U.S. Navy planes from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf shot down several North Vietnamese MIG interceptors, the sources said.

The U.S. Command said it would have no immediate comment, nor was there any report of U.S. losses.

Sources said the first raids on the Hanoi area since April 16 were ordered by President Nixon.

They were launched about midmorning, a few hours before Nixon was to meet with the National Security Council in Washington to discuss actions that might slow the 40-day-old North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam and force Hanoi to enter into meaningful peace negotiations.

On the battlefronts in South Vietnam, North Vietnamese troops poured hundreds of shells into bases in the central highlands, and fighting erupted anew for control of Highway 14 between Pelidu and Kontum.

The northernmost defense line 20 miles north of Hue continued to hold. A U.S. officer said that American planes have knocked out all 20 bridges along Highway 1 in the 30 miles between the northern defense line and the demilitarized zone.

Informants said U.S. fighter-bombers have been averaging about 125 strikes per day over North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said U.S. planes bombed six North Vietnamese provinces Sunday, coming within 50 miles of Hanoi and Haiphong and causing extensive civilian casualties and damage.

The report broadcast by radio Hanoi, said factories, schools, markets, and agricultural cooperatives were hit in N nh Binh, Thanh Hoa, Nghe An, Ha Tinh, Nam Ha and Quang Binh provinces.

Another Hanoi broadcast claimed that five U.S. planes were shot down Saturday and Sunday.

U.S. B52 bombers continued hammering at enemy targets across South Vietnam. Ground troops who went into one B52 target area in the Mekong Delta reported indications that 100 enemy were killed.

The South Vietnamese command reported a "slight increase" in enemy activity near Hue.

More enemy pressure built up on bases around Kontum City in the central highlands. Fire Base 41, 12 miles south of Kontum, was shelled today, field reports said, and ground clashes were reported as government forces tried to gain control of Highway 14.

Sporadic clashes continued north of Saigon on the way to besieged An Loc, and An Loc itself was heavily shelled.

Pros. Atty. Gen. J. Edgar Hoover said Sunday if he is elected attorney general he will enlarge the consumer protection division of the office.

While officials at the White House, State Department and elsewhere have attempted to keep the Vietnam crisis separate from the Moscow summit, the two are obviously linked.

New Graham Film Cites Drug Usage in America

The latest Billy Graham film, "Lost Generation," features special appearances by Art Linkletter and "Dragnet" star Jack Webb.

Linkletter, whose daughter Diane died as the result of the use of drugs, discusses drug usage in America, and points to what is being done voluntarily by many teenagers to combat the problem. Webb states his views on the role of the police officer and his relationship to the laws of our society.

"Lost Generation," filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, is a probing documentary which takes a close look at the attitudes and morals of the Nation. Location filming was done in Alaska, the Southern states, on the farms and in the small towns of mid-America, and

Will Conduct Fund Drive

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Board of Trustees of the College of the Ozarks has announced that the school will conduct a three-year fund drive to raise $1.5 million.

A spokesman said the board decided on the fund drive because the Presbyterian Church is ending its financial support of the school. The church has contributed about $200,000 annually to the college.

Seek Alternative for Local Property Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers has named a committee to study alternatives to financing public schools with property tax revenues.

"Minor discrepancies exist now in the property tax and the school financing systems in Arkansas, and the committee can serve to propose sound solutions to these immediate problems," Bumpers said.

The governor also said he believed federal courts would soon force all states to improve school financing methods.

"We feel it is better for Arkansas to begin the process now in developing a considered, reasonable solution rather than wait for a court mandate and run the danger of enacting a hasty, unreasoned, politically motivated solution," he said.

Named to the committee were Lt. Gov. Bob Riley; A. B. Hervey, acting director of the Department of Finance and Administration; state Education Director A. W. Ford; Dr. Earl Willis of the Education Department; state Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin; Richard Longing, director of the state Department of Commerce; state Rep. Ode Maddox of Oden; Edward Lester, a Little Rock lawyer; Joe Burlingame, director of the Division of Assessment Coordination; Dr. Charles Venus, a Little Rock economist, and Dr. Gerald Fischer, superintendent of Hot Springs Schools.

Court Reverses Drug Conviction

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court, relying on a ruling it had made in a previous case, today reversed a Pulaski County drug conviction over the dissent of three justices.

The court majority held that Special Circuit Court Judge James R. Howard of Little Rock erred by refusing to suppress evidence obtained by means of a search warrant in the case of Michael E. Morris. Morris had been found guilty of a charge of unlawful possession of LSD and had been sentenced to a $250 fine and a year in jail.

Associate Justice George Rose Smith, writing the majority opinion, said no statutory or common law authority existed for the issuance of a search warrant for "contraband" drugs at the time the Morris search warrant was issued. Subsequently, the 1971 legislature enacted specific statutory authority for search warrants.

Today's ruling was similar to a judgment by the court earlier this year in a case involving a FREETOWN, Sierra Leone. (AP) — Police arrested Associated Press correspondent Larry Heinzerling Sunday while he was covering Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's visit to this West African country.

Heinzerling was arrested at the state house in the city center during a welcoming reception for the Cuban leader.

Castro was replying to an address by President Siaka Stevens when a Guinean soldier attached to Steven's bodyguard questioned Heinzerling about his presence at the state house. After a brief interrogation, Heinzerling's camera, radio and notebook were seized. He was taken to criminal investigation department headquarters.

Police gave no reason for the arrest.

N.Y. Running Out of Taxpayers

NEW YORK (AP) — Assemblyman Andrew Stein of Manhattan says New York City is running out of taxpayers.

The ratio of taxpayers employed here by private enterprise to the number of welfare recipients is now 2.6 to 1, he said Sunday, in contrast to a ratio in 1960 of 9.7 private-sector taxpayers to each person on welfare.

"Simply put, we're running out of taxpayers," the Democratic state legislator said.

"If we are to avoid fiscal self-destruction," he added, "the restoration of our tax base clearly merits top priority."

Just One of the Many Woes of a Widower

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the woes of a widower is the number of sweet young things who try to get him to remarry, if only so he'll have someone to wake him up when it's time to take his medicine.

The trouble is they have the idea that if they throw any widow or fading divorcee, the two will happily melt and merge as if they had no more personality than a couple of drops of water. They forget that people at any age are still individual people, not crutches looking for a mate.

Here is a typical conversation I had the other day with one of these ambitious young matchmakers:

"I can't understand why you didn't go crazy for my aunt. You have so much in common. After all, her first husband had the gout, too—just like you."

"She's too rich."

"What a ridiculous thing—to regard a woman's wealth as a handicap. Why?"

"It isn't that it's a handicap. It's because her wealth is a club. I never knew a rich woman who married a poor man who could refrain from using her money to beat to death the only thing in himself he had pride in—his character. I'm too old and proud and wise to marry a bank account."

"Well, what is it you want in a woman besides poverty, a venerable one?"

seniors at Sate College of Arkansas that they must take immediate aim at "intolerance, fear and hate."

He said that newspapers provide daily evidence that "intolerance, fear and hate have become an everyday part of our lives."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Something called "The Special London Bridge Special" came along on NBC Sunday night. While it made no more sense than its title, it was one of the most imaginative, merry programs of the year.

The hour started in traditional style—Tom Jones wandering around London singing a song. Suddenly he was in Lake Havasu City, Ariz., where the 150-year-old London Bridge has been rebuilt in a resort area. At that point it appeared to the viewer that one of those amusement-park hours was ahead.

It was fantasy all the way. Tom and a pretty girl named Jennifer O'Neill wandered around, mostly singing, against some austere Arizona back-grounds, occasionally mooning over each other and plucking petals from daisies. For no reason, Rudolf Nureyev and a partner materialized in a pas de deux from "Romeo and Juliet." Charlton Heston and Mike Landon were shown playing a bit of tennis, whereupon a group of chorus boys started dancing all over a court. Kirk Douglas showed up in a cowboy getup and clown and sang with Jones. Jonathan Winters played an assortment of characters, and Hermione Gingold was playing a London bus conductor in a mad love affair with an Arizona Indian chief.

The old bridge had little part in the action, but the whole thing was fresh, completely uninhibited and novel. Sunday afternoon's "Young People's Concert" on CBS focused on the music of Anton Bruckner, a 19th century composer some critics believe should be ranked with Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. The music was moving but without Leonard Bernstein's presence, the program lacked the light but meaty commentary that made the hour especially interesting.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr., star of ABC's long-playing "The FBI," prefaced this week's repeat program with a short but obviously heartfelt tribute to the bureau's director, J. Edgar Hoover, who died last week. The series has the approval and cooperation of the bureau. The running of the Kentucky Derby took only a couple of minutes of air time Saturday, but CBS filled its channels with an hour's program. All of it, however, added to the excitement and color surrounding the racing classic.

"First of all, a sense of humor." "Why?" "Because I'm tired of laughing at and by myself. No one needs anyone else to cry with. But fun is only half-fun when it's alone."

"What else do you insist on?" "That she have amnesia." "Why, for heaven's sake?" "So she'd forget my faults and also be unable to recall and remind me of her first husband's many virtues."

"Any other requirements?" "Yes, I'd want her to know how to sew a button on right side up. I'd want her to enjoy people and love books. I'd want her to sing like Julie Andrews, look as sweet as Helen Hayes, and to be able to cook as well as James Beard."

"What age would you want a second wife to be?" "Oh, young enough to enjoy it but old enough to know better."

"If you don't mind me saying so, Hal, you're awful picky and choosy."

"Well, if a fellow can't pick, why should he choose to remarry at all? A second marriage isn't like going to a hospital, where you have to take whatever nurse is on floor duty."

The sweet young thing thought for a moment, then said:

"I can think of only one woman who would make a perfect wife for you."

Who's that?" I asked. "Lady Luck," she said.

See what I mean? Everybody has a right to park a widower's second wife except himself.

HELEN HELP US!

—by Helen Bottel—

Twenty-Year Itch or Slowdown? Dear Helen:

Lately my husband talks about other women constantly, even when he's making love to me. Away from home, he stares at "lookers" and wonders out loud what they're like. He was never this way before.

We have been married 20 years, and always had a good, hearty relationship with no sex hang-ups on my part. But now it's like women are an obsession with Gene. He even tells me the kind of girl he fantasizes about!

About two years ago he started reading every girlie magazine he could lay his hands on, and he's gradually transferred his thoughts to real females. I try to make jokes about his being "broad"-minded and show him I don't mind his remarks, but my confidence in myself is getting awfully low, even though he still tells me I'm the greatest. I know he loves me as much as I love him, which is a lot, so why this sudden interest in sexy dames?

Last night he half-kidnappingly suggested we join a mate-swapping club. I gave my usual smile and said it might be fun but I'd rather keep busy at home. Privately, inside, I was screaming.

I don't object or show Gene how much his remarks hurt, as I tell myself "just thinking" isn't adultery, and maybe this is normal for males, when they reach 45. I'm afraid that if I tell him I don't appreciate his "honesty," he'll clam up but still dream—and dreaming can make it so, right?

Should I suffer or explode? — W.W.N.

Dear W.: "Explode!" sez I.

Whether Gene has the "20-year itch" (and yearningly wonders what he has missed), or whether he's worrying about middle-age slowdown, he needs your honest reactions.

He's trying to rile you—why, I'm not sure—but maybe because he craves reassurance that he is still the man he used to be...and your jealousy will prove it. When you laugh off the fantasies aimed at shocking you, he may read this as, "Let the poor old boy dream, he's not good for much else."

Whatever, an explosion may clear the way for discussion that is at least two years overdue. You might discover you don't know each other as well as you thought. —H.

Dear Helen:

You always see letters from women who were or are known as "the other woman," and how miserable such involvements can make them. According to these writers, the wife always wins.

Then you read letters from "abandoned wives" whose husbands have left them for other women. And how miserable they are.

The one group that doesn't write, it seems, is the O.W. who is now happily married to the man who actually divorced his wife. Or do you censor these letters because we O.W.s are supposed to be the bad guys and according to "the code," villains can't win? NO NAME PLEASE.

Dear No Name: No censorship. Actually, in isolated cases I've even sided with the O.W. for wives don't always come equipped with halos.

Why don't "Other Women Turned Brides" write? They do—when they start having problems again. My mail bags don't exactly overflow with "Hey, I'm happy!" letters, especially when happiness results from something the writer would rather forget. H.

Dear Helen: "For Equal Space" made this women's pages editor very happy with her demand for larger newspaper women's sections. (She wondered why "sports" got five pages while "women" were squeezed into one, in her paper.)

Fortunately, at our medium-sized newspaper, it is the sports editor who constantly complains that women take space away from him. We publish up to three pages daily of women's news and the liberationists get a special page twice a month.

Along with articles of national interest on women's contributions to the world, and features for parents and homemakers, we still cater to much else."

the fine work of women's organizations in raising funds for scholarships, hospitals, mentally retarded and other worthwhile projects. And for this, we receive very gratifying response from our readers. —WOMEN'S EDITOR, MASSACHUSETTS

Dear Helen:

Equal rights for women should mean an end to the segregation of women's pages! And why call them "women's pages," when most of the pictures are of social events where men are also featured? Why not "Social Pages"? —N.W.

1.5 Million Visit Ship

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — More than 1.5 million persons visited the Queen Mary during its first year as a tourist attraction, City Manager John R. Mansell says.

The former luxury liner was converted to a dockside museum-shopping center by the city and opened one year ago today, Mansell noted on Sunday.

The ship was opened to the public on weekends only through June 14 and the Jacques Cousteau Living Sea Exhibits were added Dec. 11. A 400-room hotel is to be added this year, Mansell said.

Brewers Crack Goose Egg Barrier After 30 Innings

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Milwaukee's drought finally ended but Milt Wilcox is looking forward to many more scoreless innings.

The Brewers, shutout victims in three straight games, cracked the goose egg barrier Sunday after 30 innings en route to a 5-2 victory over the California Angels.

Wilcox, meanwhile, is in the enviable position of battling Gaylor Perry for honors as Cleveland's top right-hander. Wilt fired a three-hitter at the Chicago White Sox for a 3-0 victory as the Indian pitching staff extended its own scoreless inning string to 26.

In Sunday's other games, Mickey Lolich became the American League's first five-game winner as Detroit tipped Texas 7-4, Oakland upended the New York Yankees 7-5, Minnesota belted Boston 8-4 and Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-4.

With a 10-7 record, the Indians are tied with Baltimore for second in the American League East, a scant half-game back of the Tigers.

Wilcox and Perry are most responsible for the Tribe's success. Each has a 4-2 record. And Wilcox, with his third successive victory and second shutout, has a solid 0.93 earned run average.

The Brewers, who had scored just 19 runs in their 13 previous games, had slumped to a team batting average of .159 before breaking out against California.

Billy Conigliaro collected a double and a two-run homer, the latter a tie-breaking shot in the sixth.

Lolich struggled for his fifth victory and fifth complete game in six starts. He gave up 11 Texas hits, but nine of them went for extra bases. It was almost a repeat of his previous victory when he permitted 10 Kansas City safeties.

"As long as they're all singles, I'm all right," Lolich shrugged.

Len Randle had driven in all the runs that gave the Rangers a 3-2 lead before Bill Freehan's two-run single triggered a five-run fifth inning for the Tigers.

The Yanks pounced on Denny McLain for a 5-0 lead after three innings with Ron Blomberg driving in four of them with a homer and a double.

But the Ja's retaliated as Dave Duncan clobbered a three-run homer in the fourth, then Oakland parlayed four New York errors into a four-run fifth with Mike Epstein delivering the key hit, a two-run single that put the A's on top.

The Twins, retaining their 1 1/2-game West lead, reeled off their fifth straight and 12th in 13 games. They battered Boston with 14 hits including a two-run single by Harmon Killebrew and a two-run double by Rod Carew.

Pitcher Pat Dobson capped a decisive three-run rally in the sixth with a run-scoring single that gave the Orioles a 5-1 lead, then needed Eddie Watt's ninth-inning relief help as the Royals cut the gap to a run on Ed Kirkpatrick's two-run homer.

Lakers Win First NBA Championship Since 1960

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain's scowl could scare a bear, but he wore a smile of satisfaction when he said, "I think that winning this title should make life a little easier for me."

The 7-foot 1-inch captain of the Los Angeles Lakers relaxed today in his $1.5 million home and the easier life to which he referred reflected acceptance as a team player.

He blocked shots, scored 24 points and hauled down 29 rebounds despite a painfully injured right wrist as the Lakers shucked off years of frustration Sunday with a 114-100 victory over the New York Knicks.

That gave the Lakers their first NBA championship since they came to Los Angeles in 1960 and their first since 1954 when they made Minneapolis their home. The margin in games was 4-1, four straight since losing the opener.

For Chamberlain, this was a big moment. He has been criticized during his 12-year NBA career and accused of not getting along with his coaches or fellow players.

As the Lakers won a record 33rd-in-a-row and total of 69 during the regular season, there was no such criticism. None came as they beat Chicago and defending champ Milwaukee in playoff games.

The 35-year-old basketball millionaire was named the Most Valuable Player. And it wasn't until late that it became evident he had sufficiently recovered from the sprained wrist suffered last Friday night in New York. He wore a protector usually worn by defensive linemen in pro football.

Los Angeles jumped out to a 10-0 lead and then found themselves 53-50 at the half. Their third quarter made the difference.

Leading 75-74, Happy Hairston sank a basket and then Wilt added a pair, sandwiched around a shot by Walt Frazier which he blocked. The Lakers had built a seven-point lead.

The Knicks made one more run but it fell short and in the fourth period, the Lakers pulled away.

Gail Goodrich scored 12 in the final period and 25 for the game. Jerry West had 23 and Jim McMillan 20 as four Lakers scored 20 or more.

Hairston, the other starter, had 13 points but was second to Wilt in rebounds with 14.

The 33-year-old West, who has won almost everything in the NBA during his career except a title prior to this one, commented: "I couldn't feel happier if we had won 10 titles. I was disappointed that I didn't shoot better, but I feel I contributed in other ways."

For the Lakers, the title means about $7,000 extra in playoff money per man. The losing Knicks get about $10,000 each depending on how many shares are voted.

Dave DeBusschere of the losing Knicks said quietly, "We played well, but the Lakers definitely deserved to win. They're a great team."

Walt Frazier led the Knicks scoring with 31 and Earl Monroe, pressed into service at guard, finished with 16.

As Goodrich said it for the Lakers, "It's just like a storybook finish. They key of the entire year was us working together as a team."

Which is the same thing said by Chamberlain who drew a standing ovation from the crowd of 17,505 at the Forum when Shaquille took him out late in the fourth quarter, the championship assured.

Winston 500 Wildest Stock Car Race in Years

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Bobby Isaac, as cool-headed as any driver around, ignored an official black flag in the Winston 500 Sunday and made a sizeable profit out of one of the wildest stock car races in years.

Isaac, 37, who quit school in the sixth grade to go racing, was leading a bumper-to-bumper duel on the lightning fast Alabama International Speedway with five laps to go when the black flag was displayed as the nose of his Dodge crossed the starter's line.

Officials of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing had detected the cap on his fuel tank dangling awkwardly as he raced around the 2.6-mile oval, and they displayed the traditional black flag ordering him to his pit for consultation.

Isaac, at the time, was leading the pack by about two car lengths over eventual winner David Pearson in a Mercury. Isaac ignored the flagman and went blithely on. Two laps from the finish, however, he ran up behind a slower car on the high-speed front stretch and was crowded against the wall. He bounced off and continued racing, but Pearson took advantage of the momentary lapse to move by and win by triumph by 4 1/2 seconds.

Isaac was fined $5,000 for ignoring the black flag, but was allowed to continue racing. The place winner, Isaac, had a $100,000 profit, while Pearson, the runner-up, took home $50,000.

Isaac's victory was a surprise. He had never won a race before. He had been a professional driver for 10 years, but had never won a race. He had been a professional driver for 10 years, but had never won a race.

Losers to Try Riva Ridge Again in May 20 Preakness

By ROY COOPER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It's beginning to look like the May 20 Preakness at Baltimore will be an intrasquad game among horses trained by Lucien Laurin.

Chick Lang, director of racing at Pimlico Race Course, said after Saturday's Kentucky Derby he expected three or four losers in that race to try Riva Ridge again in the second gem in the Triple Crown.

But only 24 hours later, it wasn't possible to find even one.

In fact, the only trainer at Churchill Downs talking about going in the Preakness was Laurin, trainer of the Meadow Stable's wire-to-wire Derby winner.

And he was talking about which of his horses he might run against the star.

"Sure, I plan to run Upper Case against him and I could put (Roy Anderson's) Spanish Riddle in the race, too," Laurin said.

Upper Case, also owned by the Chenery family's Meadow Stable, wasn't nominated for the Derby, where supplementals aren't accepted. Spanish Riddle wasn't quite ready for the 1 1/4-mile race.

But No Le Hace, J. R. Straus' stretch runner who finished 3 1/4 lengths behind Riva Ridge on Saturday, will pass up the Preakness as will third finisher Hold Your Peace.

"That horse was just too much," Arnold Winick, trainer of Maribel Blum's Hold Your Peace, said.

No Le Hace's trainer, the affable Homer Pardue, is headed for New York, where "I'd like to think about this thing for a few days before I decide exactly what I'll do."

"But I just don't think we'll try Riva Ridge again in the Preakness. We ran as good a race as we could against him Saturday and there was just no catching him," Pardue said.

No Le Hace was out-distancing the rest of the field in the final 16th mile, but he wasn't gaining on Riva Ridge, who went under the wire under a hand ride by jockey Ron Turcotte.

Hold Your Peace, who had tried three times in the early part of the race to draw alongside Riva Ridge, faded in the stretch "like he was drunk," Pardue noted.

Introductory, the 53-1 fourth finisher, will seek other competition now in Chicago, trainer Stan Reiser said. Sensitive Music, fifth in the Derby, is going to Hawthorne.

The others are going anywhere they can hide from the champ. They were, in order of finish, Freetex, Big Spruce, Head of the River, Big Brown Bear, Kentuckian, Hassi's Image, Majestic Needle, Our Trade Winds, Napoise, Dr. Neale and Pacallo.

Riva Ridge's time of 2:01 4/5 wasn't close to Northern Dancer's record of two minutes flat, but it didn't have to be.

Best Was Brilliant But Not Good Enough Goes After First Pro Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Don Sutton's best was brilliant ... but not quite good enough.

"It was the best game I ever pitched in professional ball, and that covers eight years," the Los Angeles right-hander said Sunday after hurling 10 innings of one-hit ball, only to have the Montreal Expos edge the Dodgers 1-0 on reliever Pete Richter's bases-loaded error in the 13th.

Elsewhere, Steve Carlton became the National League's first five-game winner with a 13-strikeout performance as Philadelphia trounced San Francisco 8-3, the New York Mets rallied in the final three innings to beat San Diego 8-6 in 10, Pittsburgh outslugged Cincinnati 9-6 and St. Louis scored three times in the last of the ninth to nip Atlanta 5-4. Houston and the Cubs were postponed by cold weather in Chicago.

The only hit off Sutton, who walked four, struck out three and hit a batter, was Bob Bailey's clean single to right leading off the seventh.

After Sutton left, Jim Brewer followed with two hitless innings before Richter came on in the 13th to be greeted by John Boccabella's leadoff single, the second Montreal hit. After Ron Woods popped up attempting to sacrifice, Ron Hunt singled. Clyde Mashore was purposely passed after the runners moved up on Duke Sims' passed ball.

Richert then bobbled Mike Jorgensen's bouncer back to the mound as Boccabella raced home.

The victory kept the surprising Expos one-half game behind New York and Philadelphia in the NL East.

The Phillies staked Carlton to a 4-0 lead in the third inning after loading the bases on Mike Anderson's double.

Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer for the Phils in the eighth and Bobby Bonds connected for the Giants in the ninth.

The Mets had only three hits off Fred Norman and trailed San Diego 6-0 after seven innings on two home runs by John Jeter and one by Derrel Thomas.

But they jumped on Norman and two relievers for five runs in the eighth, featuring doubles by Tommie Agee, Jim Fregosi and Duffy Dyer. Agee then singled home the tying run in the ninth and belted a game-winning two-run homer with two out in the 10th.

The Pirates dropped a home run battle to the Reds 4-3 but won the game 9-6 with Willie Stargell belting a pair of circuits and driving in five runs. His three-run shot in the seventh wrapped it up after Roberto Clemente's single put the Pirates in front 5-4.

Al Oliver also homered for Pittsburgh, extending his hitting streak to 18 games, while Tony Perez, Joe Morgan, Bobby Tolan and Cesar Geronimo connected for Cincinnati.

Iverson Wins Golf Classic

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Don Iverson, a second-year pro from LaCrosse, Mich., fired his fourth consecutive two-under-par 69 Sunday to win the $5,000 first prize in the Shreveport Golf Classic.

Iverson, 26, finished with an eight-under-par 276, two strokes ahead of Rolf Deming, who led after the second round. Deming won $3,000.

Deming started the final round trailing Iverson by two strokes. He closed the gap to one shot when, playing in the twosome ahead of Iverson, he birdied No. 16.

Iverson went back ahead by two strokes minutes later when he birdied the same hole. Both men parred the last two holes.

Although Iverson had won $11,000 on the tour earlier this year, he had never won a tournament as a pro.

ASU Indians Name Newcomers

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Athletic Director Don Floyd has announced that the Arkansas State University Indians will open their 24-game basketball season next winter Dec. 1 against Tusculum College of Greenville, Tenn.

Newcomers to the ASU schedule include Drake University, Northwestern Oklahoma, Houston Baptist, Mercer University, McNeese State and Stetson.

Floyd said the Indians did not feel that the schedule had enough major "name" opponents and therefore was not as attractive as schedules of past seasons. But he said the Indians hoped to correct this in the future, perhaps as soon as the 1973-74 season.

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie Chuck Thrope, with a day off to consider his challenging position and pamper his nervous stomach, went after his first pro victory today in the rain-delayed final round of the $125,000 Houston Open golf tournament.

"I feel real proud of myself, being only three shots away," said Thrope, one of the few black players on the tour, after Sunday's scheduled final 18 holes were washed out by a steady day-long rain.

"If I get lucky, I can beat Mr. Bruce Devlin."

"I feel like I can win. I feel like it's my week to win."

The rangy, 6-foot-3 power hitter trailed the pace-setting Devlin by three strokes after 54 holes. Devlin, a 34-year-old Australian who now lives in Miami, has a three-round total of 206, 10 under par on the Westwood Country Club course. Young Hale Irwin was next in the chase for a $25,000 first prize with a 208 total.

Thorne, the 25-year-old son of a greenskeeper in Roxboro, N.C., was tied at 209-seven under par and three back of Devlin—with veteran Doug Sanders and tour regular Jack Ewing.

Most of the game's top stars, including Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Gary Player—decided to skip this event.

The rainout marked the second week in a row on the tour that officials had been forced to extend a tournament schedule to Monday in order to complete the regulation 72 holes.

Chi Chi Rodriguez won the Byron Nelson Classic in Dallas last Monday after the first round of that tournament had been rained out.

Today's schedule called for a 9 a.m. start with threesomes going off both the first and 10th tees.

Devlin, Ewing and Sanders will be in the last group with Thorne, Irwin and John Lister of New Zealand, with a 211 total, in the group just ahead.

Thorne, who joined the tour only last January, sought a doctor after the second round to get some treatment for a mild stomach disorder. He got some advice he didn't mind at all. He's trying to lay off hot dogs and hamburgers.

"You eat hot dogs and you play like a hot dog," he said. "You eat hamburgers and you play like one-flat."

Edwards is New Golf Champion

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Danny Edwards of Oklahoma State University is the new North and South Amateur golf champion, ending in the process defending champion Eddie Pearce's bid to become the tournament's first titleholder to repeat since 1963.

Edwards, of Edmond, Okla., broke in front with a birdie on the first hole of Saturday's 36-hole all-collegiate finals and went on to a 3 and 1 victory over Pearce, a Wake Forest University sophomore from Temple Terrace, Fla.

Origin of U.S. Involvement in Vietnam Explored

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reaches back through two decades of history in hearings this week exploring the origin of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., announced the hearings today, after the committee made public a staff report assessing the current prospects for peace as bleak.

Fulbright said the hearings Tuesday through Thursday are designed "to illuminate the lessons of the past and benefit present and future policy."

Testimony will be based on the once-secret Pentagon Papers which traced U.S. involvement in Vietnam through the Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

The staff report concluded that the success of President Nixon's Vietnamization policy has no bearing on the prospects for peace in the embattled nation.

"It seems clear that the North Vietnamese will be able to continue to use the territory of Laos and Cambodia to pursue the war in South Vietnam, no matter how successful Vietnamization proves to be."

and to keep South Vietnam in a state of permanent siege," said the document.

The analysis was based on the assessments of James R. Lowenstein and Richard M. Moose, committee staff members who visited Laos, Cambodia and Thailand last January.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the subcommittee on U.S. security agreements, released parts of it Sunday after executive-branch security officers censored it.

The foreign relations panel's hearings begin with testimony by Dr. Leslie Gelb, chairman of the task force which conducted the Defense Department study that became known as the Pentagon Papers after widespread publication last June.

Other witnesses will include James C. Thomson Jr., a former White House aide and now a Harvard history professor; Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., an assistant to former Presidents Kennedy and Johnson; and Noam Chomsky, a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a member of the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars.

In another development, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy insisted that U.S. aid programs for refugees in Laos still are being used to support military operations.

The National Weather Service provides detailed forecasts two and three days in advance.

Model City Funds Are Spread Thin

By DONALD ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Eagle Pass, Texas, is the very model of a Model City. So is Alma, Georgia.

But whatever happened to New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Gary, that long list of troubled, smoldering American cities where, five and one-half years ago, President Lyndon B. Johnson sought to "set in motion the forces of change ... that will make them the masterpieces of our civilization."

"Fund approvals in the Model Cities program, which started in 1967, total $1.275 billion through Feb. 29, 1972," says the latest accounting from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

That's far less money than the planners of this major assault of the War on Poverty had anticipated spending.

Robert C. Wood, under-secretary and then secretary of HUD during the Johnson administration, recalled in an interview, "What none of us knew then was that in the same months we were struggling with developing Model Cities, another group was deciding on escalation in Vietnam. We thought we were dealing with a $12 billion surplus."

Still the federal government has poured more than $1 billion into the program. What has it bought?

Ask Floyd H. Hyde, former mayor of Fresno, Calif., who used to be HUD assistant secretary for Model Cities, and now is assistant secretary for Community Development which includes Model Cities and a lot of other programs.

What is happening, said Hyde, is development of "a whole new relationship between what I call the establishment, local government and local decision-makers ... and the poor."

That relationship is making local governments more responsive to the needs of the poor and the poor more understanding of the problems of city hall, he said.

From the overview perspective of a Wood or Hyde, working out the role of the poor has been a fractious, but educational, part of the program's growing pains.

But to Dennis Keating, a former VISTA lawyer now at the National Center for Housing and Economic Development in Berkeley, Calif., citizen participation is an everyday, political struggle.

"In San Francisco, people wanted a veto over projects before they got to the board of supervisors. It was a question of who's going to control the programs, who's going to run them."

"HUD regulations are pitched against any real control on the part of citizen groups."

In Indianapolis, a citizen group called the Near East Side Community Organization has filed a complaint with HUD against the city, charging that its Model Cities program lacks citizen participation.

Duane Etienne, the organization's staff director, said in an interview that there has been little citizen participation in Indianapolis, and "agencies that did participate tended to be largely white and middle class."

But Indianapolis was one of 20 cities chosen on the basis of progress to take the next step in the Model Cities evolution, a citywide program called Planned Variations that is a step even farther removed from federal control or guidance.

"The general view here," said Etienne, "is that it's a massive and colossal failure even though touted as one of the most successful Model Cities programs in the country."

Robert R. Hawkins, director of Model Cities projects in Indianapolis, acknowledged that the program got off to a slow start.

Predicts Surplus of State Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers, saying that the state's economy is "on fire," has predicted that there will be a surplus of state funds at the end of the current fiscal year and again at the end of the next year.

The governor said he thought the anticipated surplus could be attributed to rising state sales tax collections. He said, however, that he did not feel that the sales tax on repair services, enacted by the legislature in 1971 at his request, was a factor.

Bumpers, appearing Saturday at the College of Juvenile Justice graduation ceremonies, also predicted that the tourist dollar in Arkansas would double within five years.

He said that many retired persons were moving to Arkansas.

Chemical Elements Make Phone Service Possible

Not many people think of chemistry when they consider how their telephone works.

But members of the Hope Rotary Club learned at their meeting Friday, May 5 that almost all chemical elements are used to make phone service possible. The program was arranged by Rotarian Ed Aslin.

Science Demonstrator Curt Johnston of Southwestern Bell told the group that the Bell System uses 97 of the 104 known chemical elements in providing telephone service.

Johnston's talk was built around a number of demonstrations taken from the sciences of chemistry and physics.

He demonstrated a magnet developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories scientists much smaller and more powerful than earlier ones. This innovation helped the Bell System improve the size and efficiency of the telephone instrument.

"To provide good communications, we often must start with basic chemistry and physics," Johnston said. "And through research and development our scientists work to make communications more reliable, convenient and efficient.

Johnston pointed out that the cost of telephone service today would be 20 per cent higher if the Bell System were still using only the materials and methods available as recently as 10 years ago.

He showed the group a model of a voice-controlled dialer in experimental use at Bell Laboratories. This instrument can ring a telephone or turn on appliances when told to do so.

"It will be some years before such a device can be used to let you speak phone numbers rather than dial them," Johnston added. "This is because not everyone speaks the same way and it's hard to build an instrument that can understand the many different accents and dialects."

The science demonstrator also used a laser beam to turn on an ordinary light and perform other useful functions.

Johnston's program is entitled "From Test Tube to Trimline—The Chemistry of Communications." Arrangements for scheduling the program for schools and clubs may be made by calling the telephone business office.

COMPACT Southwestern Bell's Curt Johnston compares an old telephone receiver to a modern combination receiver, transmitter and dial instrument panel. Through the use of smaller, more powerful magnets and other miniaturization processes, the size of the telephone has decreased while efficiency has increased. He describes how this is done during his program, "From Test Tube to Trimline: The Chemistry of Communications."

Zoo Opens Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Several hundred persons turned out Sunday for the Philadelphia Zoo's annual Monkey Island Day, which officially opens the zoo's outdoor season. There was some difficulty, however, in turning out the monkeys.

When local television personality Captain Noah pulled on a rope releasing a trap door to the monkeys' winter home, nothing happened. A second yank produced the same results.

"I think they're holding onto it from the inside," muttered Captain Noah. But a third hard pull did it, springing the 25 primates outdoors at last.

Blacks Meet to Discuss Finances

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Six black college presidents have scheduled a meeting in Memphis Tuesday to discuss finances.

The session will be held at Lemoine-Owen College, where, a spokesman said, plans for a fund raising drive will be outlined. The drive is tentatively set for July.

Other schools represented will be Fisk University of Nashville, Tougaloo of Tougaloo, Miss., Dillard University of New Orleans, Talladega of Talladega, Ala., and Houston-Tillotson of Austin, Tex.

LIGHTWORK Southwestern Bell's Curt Johnston shines a simple flashlight to produce energy in the radiometer. Putting radiation to work led to the discovery of the Bell Solar Battery, an essential part of space communications. Johnston operates the radiometer in his program, "From Test Tube to Trimline: The Chemistry of Communications."

Cuban Crisis Used for Red Power Grab

WASHINGTON (AP)—Controversial diplomats were told last week the 1962 Cuban missile crisis that the Soviet Union deployed missiles on the Caribbean island in an effort to change the world balance of power, says a former Hungarian diplomat.

James Radvanyi, who defected to the United States in 1967, attributes the claim to Anastas Mikoyan, top trouble shooter for the late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Man Charged in Robbery

BILLOXI, Miss. (AP)—A Maryland man appears before a U.S. magistrate at Kansas City, Mo., today on charges of robbing a Biloxi bank of more than $17,000, the FBI said.

Earl Edwin Austin, 30, a native of Takoma Park, Md., was arrested Sunday at St. Joseph, Mo., according to the FBI, and was charged with robbing the Pat Harrison branch of the Gulf National Bank in Biloxi April 27.

Local authorities had arrested Elmer Earl Tucker, 44, an unemployed Biloxi cook, on a charge of accessory after the fact. Officers alleged that Tucker helped Austin escape from the Biloxi area.

The FBI said Austin was released recently from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga.

He had been in the Super Max prison. Radvanyi quotes Mikoyan as saying in November 1962 that "the missile deployment was aimed at defending Cuba on the one hand, and on the other, at achieving a definite shift in the power relationship between the socialist and capitalist world."

Almost in a flash I grasped for the first time the ultimate goal of the Soviet Union," Radvanyi says. "I realized that the purpose of the extremely dangerous Soviet missile deployment was to upset the balance of power."

Radvanyi said Mikoyan also reported briefly on a visit he had with President John F. Kennedy the day before he spoke with the diplomats.

Mikoyan said "Kennedy had given him a firm guarantee that the U.S. Jupiter bases in Turkey would soon be dismantled," Radvanyi says.

Kennedy established a naval blockade around Cuba in October 1962 after it was discovered that medium range Soviet missiles were being installed on the island.

The missiles were removed the following month after a tense confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union over the issue.

The Soviet missiles reportedly were removed in return for a U.S. promise to remove the Jupiter missiles from Turkey near the Soviet border.

Election Report

Clean Sweep for Texas

Broadening a trend which developed early in the counting of Texas primary election votes, the latest returns today indicated an almost complete turnover in the state's top officials.

Voters already had demonstrated their resolve, which some voiced to pollsters in advance of Saturday's balloting, to put newcomers in the final running for governor.

Uvalde rancher-banker Dolph Briscoe and State Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi surged into a runoff for the Democratic nomination for governor while Lt. Gov. Barnes ran a trailing third and Gov. Preston Smith finished a poor fourth in his bid for a third term.

The winner in a June 5 runoff will vie with either State Sen. Hank Grover or veteran GOP leader Albert Fay, who advanced to a showdown at that time for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

And the latest tabulation by the Texas Election Bureau pointed to a possible victory for challenger John Hill in his effort to unseat Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, also in the Democratic primary.

There seemed no doubt that the results of these and other contests reflected the determination of Texans to switch to new leaders in state government because of the Sharpstown bank loans and stock insurance scandals, plus late disclosures about elected officials dealing financially with the state and reports of nepotism in the legislature.

With returns tabulated from all 354 counties in the state and 212 of those complete, Robert Johnson, chief of the Texas Election Bureau, estimated that votes from no more than 40 to 50 precincts remained to be counted.

The agency's latest tabulation for the first time gave Hill slightly more than half the total counted for attorney general.

Runoffs still loomed for Democrats running for U.S. senator, lieutenant governor and comptroller.

These were the latest figures from the Texas Election Bureau:

Democrats:
Senator—Tom Carlidge 65,336, Barefoot Sanders 759,014 (38.24 per cent), Alfonso Veloz 52,345, Hugh Wilson 120,553, Ralph Yarborough 987,516 (49.75 per cent).

Lieutenant governor—Joe Christie 362,075; Wayne Connally 568,951 (29.53 per cent), Ralph Hall 294,660, Bill Hobby 663,179 (33.2 per cent), Bill Jones 53,362, Bob McCord 24,367, Troy Skates 10,813, John Standley 17,814.

Farouk's Coins Up for Auction

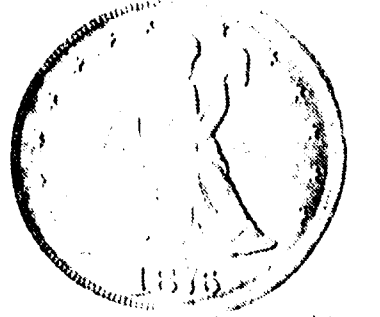

The American Auction Association, Inc., will conduct perhaps its most interesting auction of coin rarities on May 19 and 20. Among some of the rare specimens on the table will be pieces from the collections of such notables as King Farouk, composer Jerome Kern and Dr. Hewitt Judd.

King Farouk was an avid collector until his exile and many collectors over the world have tried desperately to acquire at least one item from his confiscated hoard. Certification of authenticity will accompany each piece sold.

One of the rarest coins in the auction is the 1876 CC (Carson City) Twenty-cent piece formerly owned by the noted composer, Jerome Kern. There were only 10,000 pieces of this denomination and date struck, and R. S. Yeoman's "A Guide Book of United States Coins," 25th Edition, lists the 1876 CC at $16,000. With the present trend in coin investments, the auctioned piece realized is not expected to go below the Red Book value.

An extensive offering of silver dollars includes two of the rare 1893 issues, one 1893 (rare) and several pieces from the Carson City mint dated from 1870 to 1873. Representative specimens from 1795 to date make up the balance of the silver dollar portion of the sale.

A superb Proof of the 1804 restrike silver dollar illustrated here will be among the rarest of the early silver dollars. It was made contemporaneously with the famous 1804 silver dollar, but has appeared much less frequently.

Other scarce and rare pieces will include gold issues of the 1796 quarter eagle with no stars, the 1848 California gold quarter eagle, the rare 1876 $3 gold piece, the 1866 (pattern) Flying Eagle cent and an 1879 Colored Hair $1 gold "Stella" of which only 10 were struck in gold.

Interested readers may obtain a profusely illustrated catalogue prepared by Bowlers and Ruddy Galleries by writing that firm at Suite 810 6922 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028. The price of $2 includes an itemized list of the prices received for each piece sold. Lists will be mailed to each catalogue recipient after the sale.

Free Mint Illustration. Artist George F. Ostern known for his black and white renderings of the six United States Mints is offering a 4" x 6" print of the famous United States Mint at Carson City 1870-1935 free to anyone sending him a stamped, self-addressed business size envelope for his reply.

To receive a complimentary copy of the 1972 "Red Book" of United States Coins, send your address to: American Auction Association, Inc., 1000 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Television Violence Cited

HONOLULU (AP) — Violence on television may be a cause of reckless and irresponsible driving, a university of Hawaii mass media researcher says.

He says that if you watch such programs as "Hawaii Five-O," "Mannix," "The FBI" or "Cannon," you're more likely to be a careless driver than if you prefer Lawrence Welk, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" or other nonviolent fare.

That's the conclusion of Dr. K.S. Sitaram, who says he spent two years comparing the television viewing habits of good and bad drivers.

Sitaram interviewed 293 bad drivers who had been ordered by Honolulu District Court to take a safe driving course as a result of traffic violations. He compared their video tastes with those of 54 good drivers.

Most of the bad drivers listed such programs as "Hawaii Five-O," "Mannix," "Cannon," and "The FBI" as their favorite programs, Sitaram said in an interview. "People with safe driving habits tended not to watch such programs."

Sitaram also found that the bad drivers could remember such character names as "Hawaii Five-O's" Steve McGarrett and Mannix but could not recall the names of the actors playing the parts.

"This confirms my hypothesis that they are living in a world of fantasy," he said. "They act out the fantasies when they are driving. They probably think they are Mannix or McGarrett and are trying to imitate them."

There is a message in all this, Sitaram said. "People learn aggression from the mass media, particularly radio and television," he said.

Harbour Opens Headquarters

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mack Harbour of Paragould said Sunday that he would be in a runoff election with Gov. Dale Bumpers for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination after the May 30 primary.

Harbour made the statements during the opening of his Little Rock headquarters. Harbour, state Rep. George Davis, state Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs and Lester Gibbs of North Little Rock are seeking the nomination for governor. Bumpers is running for re-election to a second term.

"I'm the only one that can beat Bumpers in the runoff because I am the darkhorse candidate," he said. Two years ago, when Bumpers was running for office, political observers dubbed him a dark horse candidate.

"My background is clean," Harbour said. He said there was nothing in his past that "would turn the voter off."

"My background would turn them on," he said. Harbour has been particularly critical of Bumpers' handling of the Lee County Cooperative Clinic in Marianna.

He said Sunday that it was a mistake for the governor to sign his approval of an Office of Economic Opportunity grant for more than $1 million for the clinic.

"They need health care in Lee County, but let's build a stable health care...with people we are able to keep in the community," he said.

New Bill May Curb Endless U.S. Reports

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Who knows what advisory panels are in bureaucratic shadows whispering information in government ears? The public doesn't know, but would under a proposed new law opposed by the administration.

Are costly reports simply filed and forgotten, does anyone keep track of who studies what, do old boards hang on after their jobs are done, is there any follow-up on proposals of presidential panels?

These and other problems involving the power and performance of governmental advisory groups are addressed in legislation due to reach the House floor for action Tuesday.

During lengthy investigations, the House Government Operations Committee uncovered an uncontrolled and essentially unrecorded population explosion of advisory committees throughout the federal bureaucracy. The panels have spread so

Opposes Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Some members of the state Water Commission reportedly are opposed to a bill sponsored by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., that would help the St. Louis-Southwestern Railway.

The commission is expected to decide Wednesday whether to send McClellan a letter voicing its opposition to the measure.

The legislation would provide the railroad a payment of $3,000 a month starting April 30, 1970, until the Army Corps of Engineers completes construction of a new railroad bridge across the Arkansas River near Pine Bluff and finishes dredging a new channel.

Work on the bridge was completed in April 1971, but a spokesman for the engineers said dredging still was not finished.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, which reported the commission dissatisfaction with the bill, reported that the railroad said it sought reimbursement of operating expenses created by navigation on the river before the new bridge was built.

The newspaper quoted a spokesman for the railroad as saying that before the new bridge was finished, increased barge traffic on the river forced an increase in manpower to lift a span that would allow river traffic to pass beneath the old bridge.

James Walden of Helena, owner of a towboat firm who is a member of the Waterways Commission, said the McClellan bill was against the best interest of the waterways industry.

"And after all, nobody pays us (waterways operators) anything for our losses," Walden said. "Why should we subsidize the railroads?"

Twelve blacks found guilty

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — Twelve black students have been found guilty of disturbing the peace during an incident at Lee County High School in Marianna Jan. 13.

Municipal Court Judge Cecil Matthews, who made the finding Saturday, sentenced the defendants to six months in jail, with four months suspended, and fined them $50 each, with $100 each suspended.

Matthews said that if the 12 would enroll in the high school Sept. 1 and observe the rules of the school, he would dismiss the remainder of the jail terms.

The judge dismissed the cases against 11 other blacks.

A number of other black students have been charged with the same incident and other trials are pending.

Honduran Troops Hunt Skyjacker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Honduran army troops combed a heavily forested mountain region for a man who parachuted from an Eastern Airlines jet with $300,000 ransom in one of two marathon weekend plane hijackings.

In the second incident, a young Vietnam war prisoner commandeered a Western Airlines jet over Utah and eventually ordered it to Cuba. He promised to sneak back into the country and do it again.

Both planes were taken over Friday. The Eastern hijacker bailed out over Honduras Saturday morning and a few hours later the Western airliner touched down in Havana.

Both hijackings appeared politically motivated. Eastern crew members said the man told them he didn't want the

Muscle Therapy Is Important

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb: What is your answer to the many thousands of people suffering from muscle injury like the young boy you wrote about who was hurt with judo? I had a similar problem for years and, after seeing many doctors with out results, went to see a remedial massage therapist with training in Denmark. My muscles were in spasm from the base of the skull to the base of my spinal column. As treatment progressed, there was slow but evident relief.

In time, it became evident that my main problem was a great deal of nervous tension associated with my occupation. More than I had possibly realized. Then I was also hurt later with judo. I have repeatedly obtained considerable relief from treatment by a remedial massage therapist.

In Canada, there are persons not grata to the medical profession and hundreds of sufferers with similar problems see a therapist without their physician's blessing and the therapist is refused payment for his treatment by the Canadian government. In the United States, does the therapist or masseur have to be a medical doctor to be recognized as capable of treating this type of injury? I am not suggesting you take a stand politically, but simply state your views on the practical efficiency of remedial medicine, do you disagree with the European medical profession in their cooperative use of this type of therapy?

Dear Reader—The medical profession can and does use massage, heat, traction and most every aspect of muscle therapy that is useful for the body. In the United States, this is organized in conjunction with, or under the supervision of, a physician who is a specialist in physical medicine.

The individuals who give the massage and provide this type of care are called physiotherapists. In one sense, you can regard them as assistants or technicians to the specialist in physical medicine. They are well-trained in the art of muscle massage and muscle therapy. Physiotherapy departments, with their hydrotherapy and other devices, are very important in medicine and are used in treatment of muscle injuries and at one time, when polio was common, they helped rehabilitate polio victims.

There is an advantage to receiving your muscle therapy under the supervision of a specialist in physical medicine, because it decreases the likelihood that the patient will have some other medical problem that needs attention. Some individuals with muscle pain have serious illnesses that require other forms of treatment, for example rheumatoid arthritis. Others occur repeatedly because of poor postural habits. Still others are associated with skeletal abnormalities like the individual who has one short leg. Correction of these problems is essential to solving the muscle difficulties.

I see no reason why a physician should refer his patients to a remedial massage therapist for specific treatment if he chooses to do so. But I do think that it is unwise to go directly to an individual who is not a doctor for massage therapy for a persistent medical complaint without a good and complete medical examination by someone trained in the broader aspects of medicine.

Try Mammoth sunflowers. They grow quickly with minimum care, reaching up to 10 feet tall with flowers 6 to 12 inches across. Use them to decorate a garage wall, screen a compost pile or just for decoration. At harvest, youngsters and birds will find the seeds a healthy treat.

Gourds always have fascinated children. Select the larger mixed varieties, either Bottle or Big Gourd types. When mature, bottle gourds can be dried, varnished and, with a hole cut in one side, hung as bird houses. Small fancy gourds are pear, egg and tiny bottle shapes. Their multicolors make them great for table decorations when dried and varnished in the fall.

The Sensitive plant, mimosa pudica, has a curious habit. Touch the leaves and they seem ticklish. They curl up in unison to delight youngsters again and again. Excellent for house plants or school show-and-tell projects.

There is a Great Pumpkin, you know. He's Big Max, the wonderful giant that grows up to, and often over 100 pounds.

This extraordinary variety needs room to grow but will climb a wire trellis to provide a jungle-like forest of foliage. You can almost watch the pumpkins grow by the minute. But pick off extra flowers after the first fruits are set if you want the biggest pumpkins in your patch.

To climax a garden of wonders, try Best Pole Limas or Kentucky Wonder pole snap beans. If your pole is tall enough, the vines will keep growing right up toward the sky. You may need a ladder to pick them but what a sight for those young eyes.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "Artificial conventions are essential to good bridge. You should play some as a matter of course. Blackwood as a starter. On the other hand, you don't whip a good horse to death. You don't need to use Blackwood in all your slam bidding."

Jim: "The first thing to learn about Blackwood is that it is primarily a method of keeping out of slams. Take the South hand as an example. South is interested in a slam the moment his partner opens the bidding. When his partner's second bid is a jump raise in hearts, South knows that the material is there for a slam. All that matters is the number of aces held by his partner."

Oswald: "Our example is a classic Blackwood hand. South has 16 points in high cards, plus a lot of distributional points. He knows the total partnership count has to be in the grand-slam zone. More important, he knows that he can set the final contract the moment his partner tells him how many aces he holds."

Jim: "He is mighty disappointed when the best North can do is to bid five hearts in response to the Blackwood call. Not that North doesn't have a sound three-heart bid but, rather, that South expected North to show up with three or even four aces for his bid. He is also happy that Blackwood has kept him out of trouble."

Let's get together

At Arkansas Power & Light, we're putting more emphasis where it belongs — on you, the customer.

As with all big companies, AP&L wouldn't be around long if we didn't plan for the future. And we wouldn't be much of an electric power company if we didn't concern ourselves with things like adequate fuel supplies, meeting tomorrow's energy needs and protecting the environment.

But we don't want you to think that these plans for the future have overshadowed today's plans for you and your family. Our concern about a homeowner's backyard lighting problems, a farmer's irrigation pump or a mother's worries about proper nutrition is as important as our concern for nuclear-fueled generating stations and high power transmission lines.

Arkansas Power & Light Company is going to show you more and more that we care about your family and your needs.

And that's why you're going to think of us more as a service company. Human service as well as electric service.

You can help by letting us know how to help. We can't promise that we'll do everything. Nor can we promise that the things we can do will be done overnight. But we do promise that we'll listen to you.

Let's get together.
